1 Positionality

- A position defines your orientation with respect to an entity.

Idea: How does PIAA affect positionality?

Some ideas from classmates:

- Perception sets initial opinion
 - You interpret things based on your position What or what you don't perceive affects your positionality.
 - In breaking the action of perceive-act, you include steps that allow the time to assess your position.
 - Filters (in perception) depend on position
 - Understanding your position allows you to assess your interpretations
- Subconscious bias will be brought to the table depending on your position, so others can explicitly see how you are looking at a situation.
